KENT AND YORKSHIRE WIN.

Jardine And Hendren
Score Freely at The Oval

London, Yesterday.

Vallance Jupp, the Northants skipper, achieved the rare distinction of securing all ten wickets in a single innings when he trundled Kent out for 364 at Tunbridge Wells; his own figures reading 10 for 127. In spite of his splendid effort Northants lost by an innings and 188 runs, Tich Freeman taking 16 of their wickets for 82 runs. The small Kent bowler's success is all the more meritorious following his 17 Warwickshire wickets for 92 runs last week.

Though Townsend (12 for 148) bowled splendidly at Buxton Derbyshire lost to Lancashire by 185 runs. Idon (10 for 85) and Sibbles (5 for 42) being in good form for the Red Rose county.

Sutcliffe Again.

Herbert Sutcliffe registered yet another century when he was opposed to the Gloucestershire attack at Bradford. Thanks to his effort coupled with an undefeated innings for 177 by Mitchell and excellent bowling by Macaulay (5 for 67) Yorkshire registered their eighth victory of the season. Hammond and Sinfeld strove desperately to save Gloucester from their eighth defeat, but their efforts were unavailing.

Warwick Win.

Warwickshire secured valuable points from Essex at Edgbaston where Mayer at last came out of his shell to secure 5 wickets for 39 runs.

Heavy Scoring.

No fewer than 1,074 runs were scored at the Oval for the loss of 18 wickets in the Gentlemen v. Players match. Jardine took the opportunity of answering his critics with a brilliant undefeated century and Lionel Tennyson contributed 112 to the Gentlemen's total of 452 for 7. Faced with this total the Players made light of the opposing and scored 513 for 6. Patsy Hendren scoring 194 not out, Andy Sandham 80, and Jack Hearne 90. At the close of play the Gentlemen were 48 runs in the lead with half their wickets in hand.

BONDHOLDERS ABROAD CAN GET BENEFITS.

Conversion Plan Applies
As In Britain.

London, To-day.

The War Loan Conversion Plan continues popular. Nearly 350,000 bondholders out of 2,500,000, have already converted.

Holders of bonds abroad will be given every opportunity to convert, with the advantage of the one per cent. cash bonus. But they are advised to be as quick as possible in making application. — Reuter.

AUSTIN DEFEATED BY PRENN

GERMAN'S FAST DRIVING AND SERVICE

PERRY PLACES BRITAIN LEVEL

JIRO SATOH LOSES TO DE STEFANI IN JAPAN - ITALY MATCH.

Berlin, Yesterday.

Penn, Germany's No. 1 ranking player, caused a sensation to-day when he beat "Bunny" Austin, this year's finalist at Wimbledon, in four sets in the semi-final round of the European zone of the Davis Cup match against Great Britain.

The German player's magnificent driving and serving, coupled with his speed on the fiery hardcourt, completely bewildered Austin. He was beaten in precisely the same manner as he was in the Wimbledon Final by Ellsworth Vines. Penn won by 6-0, 8-10, 6-2, 6-3.

Fred Perry, however, placed Britain on level terms with a straight sets victory over Von Cramm. He won easily by 6-1, 6-2, 6-3. — Reuter.

JAPAN AND ITALY ALL SQUARE.

In the other semi-final match Japan and Italy are on level terms, Kuwabara beating Palmieri 6-0, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3, whilst De Stefani beat Jiro Satoh by 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. — Reuter.

To-morrow Perry will meet an old friend in Penn, for the German figured prominently in his remarkable rise to fame. Even though Penn is playing at the top of his form, Perry should be able to repeat his victory of 1930. Jiro Satoh's defeat was most unexpected. Having reached the semi-final at Wimbledon by brilliant displays Satoh was fully expected to win with ease. His Italian opponent had only one good display to his credit and HOPE LEADS IN KING'S CUP AIR RACE.

Prince Of Wales Is Second.

42 PILOTS START.

London, Yesterday. W. L. Hope, piloting a Fox Moth with a Gipsy Third engine, led the field after the first day's flying in the King's Cup Air Race. The Prince of Wales' aeroplane finished second. It is a Comper Swift monoplane, fitted with a 120 h.p. Gipsy III engine. The first of 42 aeroplanes competing for the King's Cup left Brooklands at 8 a.m. to-day.

The first section which will be flown to-day will total 728 miles whilst the second section to-morrow will be 495 miles. To-day's route is by way of Brighton, Portsmouth, Bristol, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Leigh, Northampton and the back to Brooklands.

Particular interest is being displayed in the machine entered by the Prince of Wales, Comper Swift monoplane, coloured red, white and blue. (Continued on Page 12.)

BRITISH DELEGATES TO RETURN.

London, To-day. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, is leaving Lausanne to-night, and will arrive in London to-morrow afternoon.

The Prime Minister is expected to reach London on Sunday afternoon. British Wireless Service.

IRISH DUTIES BILL PASSED.

Arbitration Still Possible.

AGREEMENT UNLIKELY.

First Reading by Lords.

London, To-day. Final reading of Irish Free State Special Duties Bill was taken in the House of Commons to-day and passed by 222 votes to 30.

Immediately afterwards the House of Lords gave the measure formal first reading, so that it may be placed on the statue books without delay.

During the third reading debate, Opposition speakers moved for rejection, declaring that both sides having accepted the principle of arbitration, negotiations should be further continued. Hopes were also expressed that the measure would be brought into use only as last resource and that the Imperial Conference would be given an opportunity of adjuting matter.

STOCK EXCHANGE STIMULUS.

Lausanne Agreement Adds Strength.

BANK ACTION SEQUEL.

London, To-day. The announcement by the big banks and insurance companies, of their decision to convert their holdings into War Loan has imparted good feeling on the Stock Exchange.

Later news from Lausanne, that an agreement had been reached, acted as a fresh stimulus, and led to further strength, especially in European bonds. — Reuter's Special Service.

JAPANESE FACES SERIOUS CHARGE.

Embezzlement of $20,000.

GANDE, PRICE EMPLOYEE.

A Japanese, M. Tani, formerly in the employ of Messrs. Gande, Price & Co., local wine merchants, and who has been in Police custody since June 25, following his arrest on arrival of the Empress of Japan from Shanghai, was brought before Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning.

Tani, who was represented by Mr. Leo D'Almada, sr. faced charges of the embezzlement of $20,000 from Gande, Price & Co., and forgery.

The accused was remanded for one week, his Worship fixing the date for the hearing of the case for July 19.

MR. HENDERSON'S APPOINTMENT.

To Act As D.P.W.

Mr. Richard McNeil Henderson, M.Inst.C.E., M.I.Mech.E., has been appointed to act as Director of Public Works, with effect from July 2, and also provisionally appointed to be temporarily an Official Member of the Executive and Legislative Councils.

He will also be Vice-President of the Sanitary Board while acting as Director of Public Works.

WAR DEBT PACT NOW NEARER

REPARATIONS FIXED FOR GERMANY

WORLD CAPITALS ARE JUBILANT

EUROPEAN RECONSTRUCTION NOW MADE POSSIBLE.

Agreement was reached to-day by the Powers at Lausanne. Word was flashed from the seat of the conference to the capitals of the world and in all save one, Berlin, the news was received with enthusiasm and thanksgiving. The nations, in effect, have wiped out all German reparations and in their place have arranged for bonding of the debt, in the sum of 3,000,000,000 marks.

The agreement goes farther than that, containing five resolutions, in all, embracing a variety of matters, political and economic. It contains an understanding between the central Powers for assisting the eastern and south-eastern states' establishment.

The agreement is interpreted as being a great stride towards closer international understanding and one of the surest means for the preservation of peace.

London, Paris, Washington, Rome all are jubilant. In the House of Commons Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas interrupted the debate on the Irish Duties Bill to announcement the settlement, amid the cheers of the members.

The reparations problem has been one of the chief impediments to political and economic recovery in Europe since the war.

The news has been received in London with intense satisfaction, particularly in view of the prominent part taken by the British Minister in the prolonged negotiations of the past few days.

At Lausanne intense enthusiasm prevailed. Although the issue was in doubt until the end a more favourable atmosphere was reached when the chief French delegate, M. Herriot, met Premier Ramsay MacDonald this morning to resume negotiations which were continued far into night. The German Chancellor, Herr Von Papen was in communication with his Cabinet colleagues at Berlin while these conversations were in progress during the afternoon, and thereafter rapid progress was made.

Shortly after luncheon, Premier Herriot was able to inform waiting journalists that an agreement had been reached.

According to Press reports the agreement provides for a definite moratorium for three years and suppression of all reparation payments by Germany. Their place will be taken by a 3,000,000,000 marks guarantee, secured by five per cent. bonds to be issued at 90. It is stated that other incidental matters will be redemption period of bonds and subject of discussion this evening when the plenary session of the head and that at the final plenary session to-morrow signatures to the agreement will be affixed.

The agreement begins with a preamble setting forth the object of the conference, continuing with a political declaration and concludes with five resolutions.

The political declaration is the most important part of the document and reads as follows:

"The powers that signed the treaty came to Lausanne, to deal with one of the problems arising out of the war and with the firm intention of contributing to a new order which will allow

Will Aid Austria. The second resolution provides transitional measures with regard to the bonds and extends the provision for a declaration until the ratification by national Parliaments has occurred.

The third resolution does not relate to German reparations but states that Belgium, the United Kingdom, Germany, France and Italy have agreed to proceed with

TAILORED TREND FOR SUMMER

Graduated Colour Scheme

QUIET TONES.

Quiet colours and tailored lines are favoured this season. That does not mean that dress is monotonous; there are the smart black-and-white, beige, grey, and many other colour schemes, all of which are remarkably extensive.

Several leading dress artists this season show an ensemble or frock in two shades of beige or grey with charming results. In the majority of cases the top is lighter as being more becoming near the face.

In gowns carried out in shades of one colour, like pink, for example, the result can be most elegant with a dark hem, then becoming lighter and lighter towards the neck-line.

Many of the lightest tailored ensembles are on this shaded plan; a dark green and grey striped silk suit will have a shirt-blouse and hat in palest green. Two greys look charming together, a dark grey for a pleated skirt of crepe de Chine, worn with a dark and light grey printed blouse, and a little short tailored coat of the same, while to go over this is a slim wool coat of the darker tone. The same coat can be worn on other occasions, possibly over a grey cotton dress or pale grey silk ensemble, with crepe shoes, pochette, hat, and gloves all carrying out charming harmonies in grey. Beige is still easier to treat on the graduated colour plan.

There is also the cape for hot days, and this can be part of the more elaborate frock, to be discarded on occasions when the warmer coat is necessary. The long coat is a noticeable feature in this year's fashions; it is often of unlined wool or tweed, but always a fairly warm and practical garment.

Gone are the days when silk, muslin, chiffon, flowers and feathers constituted the Ascot toilette. This Ascot will see the plainest frocks and ensembles—not, of course, in fabric, but in style.

Very novel is the severity of the lacey-chiffon frock. Even the most fragile crepes have a slightly high-waisted coat, sometimes in dark silk or wool; this extra coat is an important part of the modern Ascot scheme. It matches and completes the lacey creation beneath, so that the wearer is ready for any weather.

Satin and crepes are dull, for shiny is unfashionable. Only chiffon and horse-hair fabrics may have a lacquered look!

Paris Fashion Notes

Black And White For Tea

Theatre Modes

In gardens at tea-time black and white seems to be much in fashion. Thus there will be a black dress with a white bolero and hat; a black skirt and a white coat; or a black dress with a deep white shoulder yoke. Hats may be entirely white, or the crown may be black and the brim white. Long chains of white beads continue to be hung on black bodices.

Large, flat, white buttons like china, pearl buttons set with coloured stones, and large white ball buttons are other decorations. Shiny white leather handbags are trimmed lightly with black. White washing suede gloves with soft tops of Irish crochet, or fishing net stitch, and frilled cuffs, show other uses of white.

In a garden it is almost disconcerting to see a brightly coloured dress.

At the theatre, in Mademoiselle, an emancipated girl is dressed to her part in clothes almost prim in their simplicity. She appears in a brown and beige ribbed woollen jersey. The skirt is beige, the bolero is brown over a white blouse, and its long tight sleeves are half beige and half brown. Her brown beret is set well on one side. Her shoes and bag are brown, her gloves beige. In evening dress there is the same neatness. A white crepe dress, hung from the slender, low-cut bodice, has no trimming but a jewel at the waist, a necklace of pearls, and a diamond bracelet.

Dress Reflects Age.

In the audience there were several types of the girl on the stage, just as neat and simple. Dress reflects the age, and it is by following this school of fashion and that, difference in education may be gathered.

There are still girls whose mothers choose their clothes and two sisters are often dressed exactly alike. An ensemble much liked by the young and liberated consists of a soft brown and orange striped woollen dress, a brown coat, reaching to the knees, the stitched yoke falling full, a flat round collar, high pockets, two rows of gold clips, a pale yellow and deep orange handkerchief, and a little beret or bonnet in suitable colours.

For the evening, in this spirit, Mme. Schiaparelli has designed an ice-blue varnished silk jersey dress with a high waist line and a little wide sleeved coat of brilliant, but dark blue, velvet. Again, a black and white printed silk bodice goes with a short, close-fitting jacket with a ruche about the waistline.

For Evening.

At the international tennis meetings brown and white, black and white, navy blue and white woollen crepes or jerseys are usual. Little dresses with short coats and bright scarves, or lingerie neck trimmings, hats which are neither berets nor toques but something between the two, neat bags, and shoes, and loose-fitting gloves combine to make many ensembles.

For the evening at the seaside or at home there will be vividly coloured chiffon evening dresses. White and yellow will be worn; the fashionable yellows are pale, like lime, lemon, or primrose. Yellow is also put with black, as in a woollen crepe dress with yellow shantung puffs on the sleeves and a yellow belt. Green in very light shades also trim black. Two or three shades of one colour are put together in a trimming, such as a

LACTOGEN"

"I am sending you a photograph of my baby taken at the age of seven months. She is a perfect child thanks to 'Lactogen.' She has never given me a day's trouble since I put her on to 'Lactogen' at the age of six weeks when we were in Malta; even the boat journey, and the sudden change of climate had not the slightest effect upon her, all of which I put down to 'Lactogen.' If only Mothers knew there was such a splendid food, I feel sure that there would be fewer sickly babies."

M.C.G.

Lactogen is so easily digested and supplies the needed nutrient in such readily assimilable form that even the most delicate Baby thrives upon Lactogen—often indeed when all other food fails.

Lactogen is pure, fresh, full-cream, modified dried milk with extra cream and natural milk sugar added, made in all important respects exactly like breast milk.

Lactogen contains all the vital nutriment in the right proportions to promote healthy growth, develop a sturdy constitution, with steady nerves, dense bone, firm flesh and a happy disposition.

Doctors and Nurses now say, "Put Baby on Lactogen at the first sign of lack of progress."

IN A MOIRE CASE

A clean town fashion is that of wearing washable organdi or lawn blouses, delicately trimmed, with dark coats and skirts, white gloves, and white and black bags. These are the only design available. They were serviceable and we accepted them, adding our names to a slip of paper fixed inside.

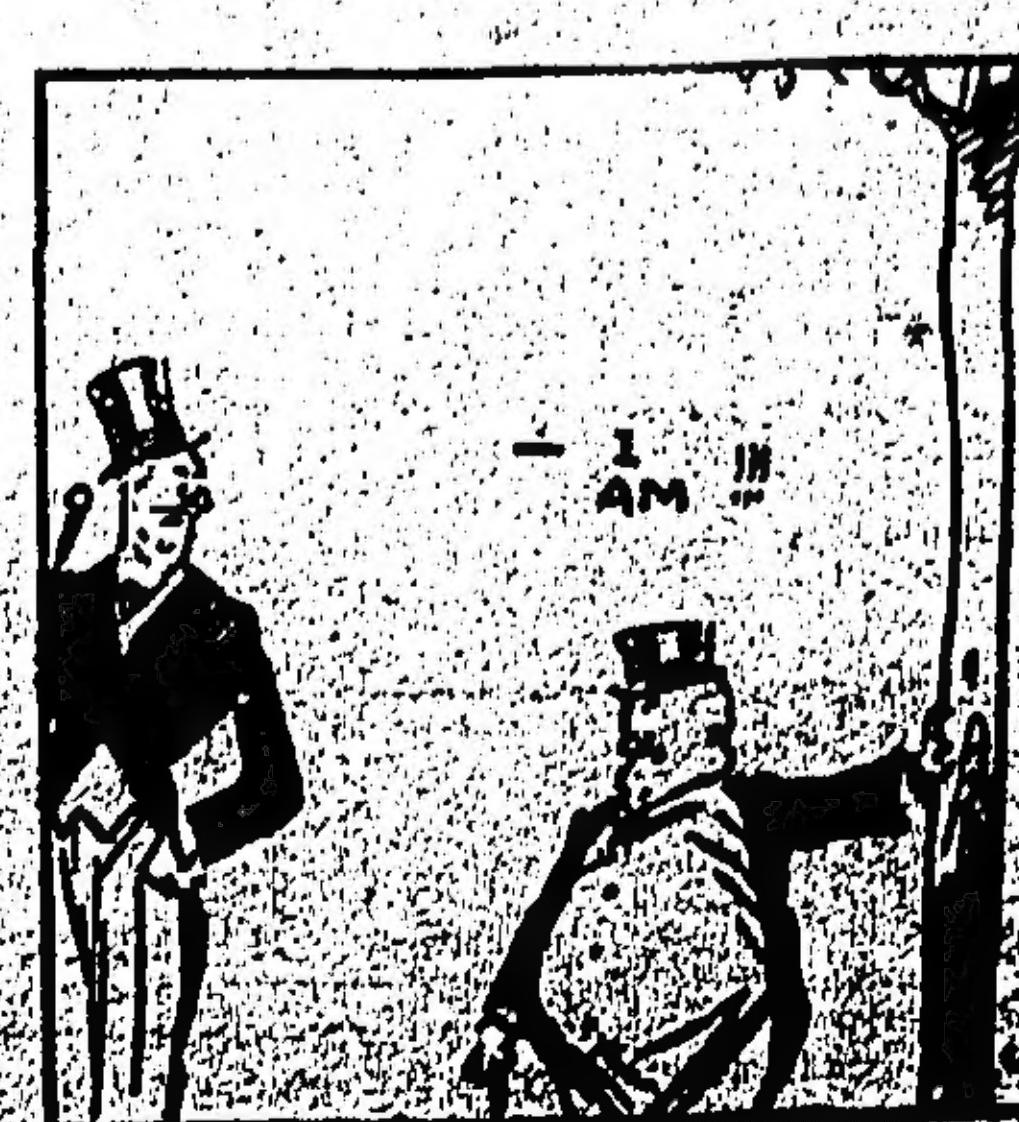

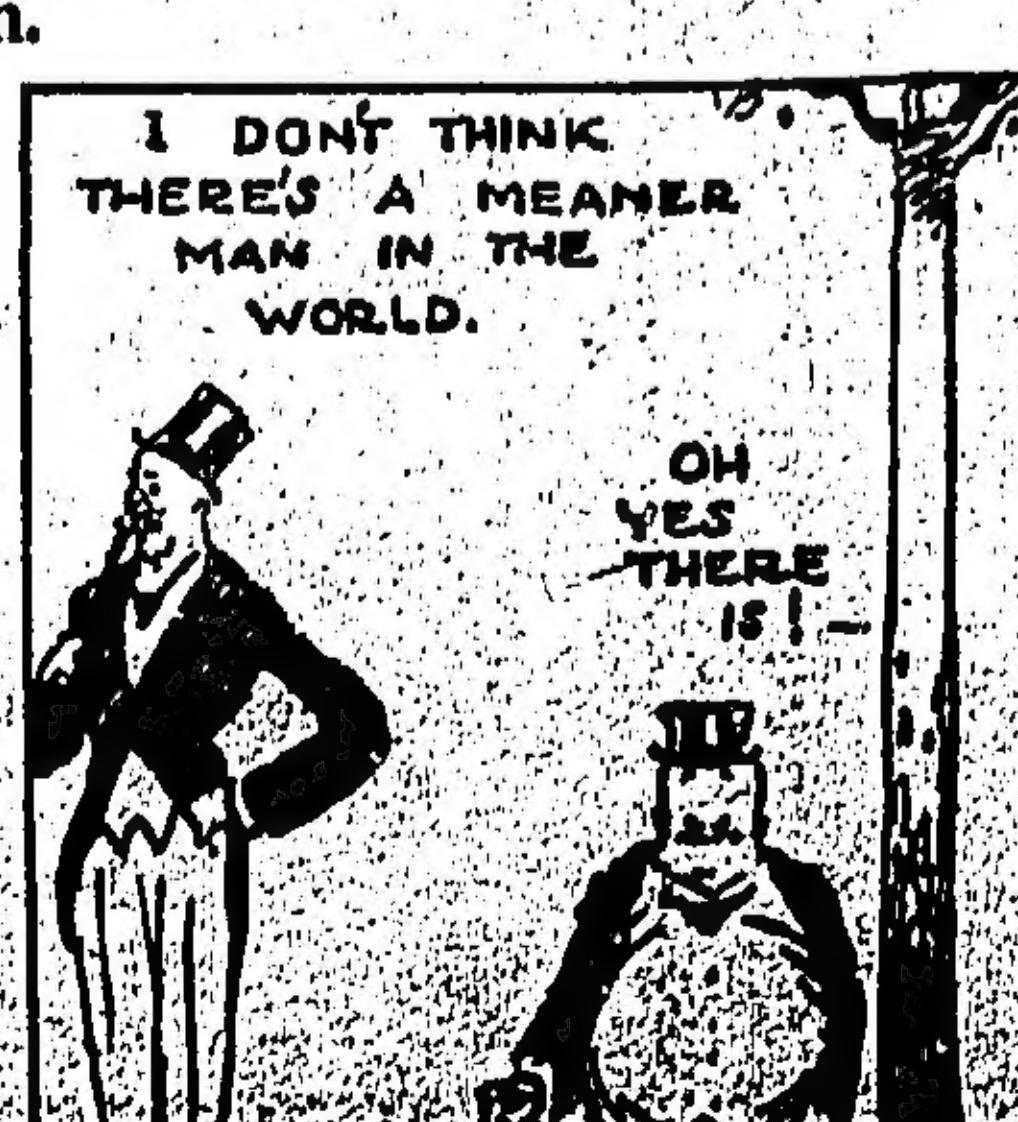

After that came extremely elaborate designs. The shapes of the cases varied and followed the line of the folded spectacles with most extraordinary angles. These were covered with the brightest of silks and tapestries.

Now, spectacles cases are less gaudy, and many new cases are covered with moire silks.

Some have tiny animals worked on the flaps, in silver, but there is much fondness for moire cases to match the colour of handbags with gilt monograms on the flaps and tiny tags inside no which to write the owners' addresses.

RADIO WIN HOCKEY ENCOUNTER.

Defeat Lt. Tyler's XI
By 4 to 0.

Playing a friendly game of hockey on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, the Radio Sports Club without the services of G. Jack and A. E. P. Guest, defeated a team captained by Lieut. H. W. Tyler, by four clear goals.

Several new Borderers' players were tried out in Tyler's team, and played very well, but W. G. Johnson and Tyler were outstanding players.

The game was closely contested throughout with the Radio the better balanced side. Atta Singh (2), Gurhachan Singh and H. Singh obtained the Radio's goals. In the Radio defence Surjan Singh, P. Singh and Hanib, at right-half-back, were very much in the lime-light.

Chinese Athletes for Los Angeles

Liu And Yui To Compete On The Track

SPRINTS AND DISTANCE

SPRINGFIELD MAN COACHES CHINESE STARS FOR OLYMPIAD.

Shanghai, July 3. China has decided to send two leading trackmen to the World's Olympiad which begins on July 30 to August 10 at Los Angeles. They are Z. C. Liu and S. W. Yui, who will arrive here to-morrow from Peiping. The China National Amateur Athletic Federation has already booked their passages on s.s. Peter Maersk which leaves this port on Friday.

Liu holds three China records. His time for the 100 meter dash is 10.8 seconds. He established his 200 meter dash record in 1929 at Mukden, the time being 22 seconds flat. In the same year he lowered the 400 meter dash at 52.4 seconds. Since then he has made further improvement in the dashes.

Unofficial records. S. W. Yui is a new star in distance runs. He is considered the best 800 meter and 1,500 meter runner in China. He smashed the China records in these two events in the track meets in North China though his times are not yet recognised by the China National Amateur Athletic Federation.

N.C.A.F. Lend Aid. In view of their prowess on the cinder track the North China Athletic Federation launched a special campaign to raise sufficient funds to enable Liu and Yui to compete with the world's foremost athletes. Although they will have very slim chances to obtain any points when running against the cream of other nations, yet they will certainly gain much valuable experience which can be used for the future development of Chinese athletics.

Three Representatives. Together with Mr. Wm. Z. L. Sung, general secretary of the China National Amateur Athletic Federation, China will be represented in the Los Angeles meet by three persons directly going there from Cathay.

Hoh the Trainer. These two athletes will be accompanied to Shanghai by Mr. Gunson Hoh, a Springfield man. For the last two months Hoh has been giving Liu and Yui all he has learned in the States as well as taking great care of them. Shanghai's Chinese well-wishers will no doubt give China's delegates an exceedingly warm send-off on Friday.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

FINNISH ATHLETES LEAVE FOR LOS ANGELES.

Paavo Nurmi and Lehtinen Among First Group.

Helsingfors, June 29. The first group of the Finnish Olympic Team left yesterday for Los Angeles via Hamburg and Paris. The famous runners, Paavo Nurmi and Lehtinen, were in that group. The whole Finnish Olympic Team will be composed of 23 athletes.

Strong Nerves

Better Health-More Energy

Full of vitality and energy—untiring and happy—all day long.

That is HEALTH. That is the kind of health and nerve-strength Sanatogen will give you. A well-known physician explains the action of Sanatogen in these words:

"Sanatogen is a steadily acting tonic-food, and it acts in a natural and physiological manner—recreating cells which have been broken down or destroyed by illness or overwork and building up new cells where these are needed. There is no Jerry-building about Sanatogen; what it does is to go straight to the core of well-being—the cells—and to build these up one by one into a permanent and solid fabric of Health."

It is because of these cell-building properties that Sanatogen makes people thoroughly healthy.

KOWLOON MIXED DOUBLES WIN

RECREIO ROUT POLICE IN THURSDAY'S JUNIOR GAME.

The Chinese Recreation Club gained their second victory in the "A" Division of the Tennis League yesterday when they claimed all sets against South China. The C.R.C., who are making a determined bid for the championship this year, have but two more games to play — against the Hong Kong C.C. and the Kowloon C.C. They should win both these games with ease and thus win the title the Indians have so zealously guarded for the past two years.

Craigengower won their third match in the "B" Division and now head the table, whilst Kowloon inflicted a heavy defeat on the Recreio in the Mixed Doubles League. On Thursday the Recreio defeated the Police by a large margin in the junior league.

ITALIAN WOMEN BARRED FROM LOS ANGELES.

Government Attitude Made Very Clear.

Opposition to women appearing in public athletic competitions prevents Italy from sending a women's team to the Los Angeles Olympics.

This attitude of the government was made clear by the cancellation of a woman's athletic meet scheduled at Naples.

The contest was cancelled only two days before its opening. It was intimated in government circles that women would do better to exercise behind their own doors.

Opposition by the Vatican frequently has been expressed by the Pope. Now that Italy and the Vatican are on friendly terms the ecclesiastical disapproval is synonymous with governmental disapproval.

Anglo-American Accord On Disarmament.

One of the most constructive, sensible and practical plans submitted on disarmament is that outlined by Mr. Baldwin yesterday when explaining to the House of Commons Britain's views on Disarmament, with a reply to President Hoover's suggestion made a few days ago. It will be seen that the American and British views agree on principle, the only differences concerning the nature of reduction.

This accord is vitally important and revives hope for the Disarmament Conference which has been proceeding for weary months without achieving any progress. The wide divergence of the plans expounded at the opening and the determined stand taken by France and Japan left the Conference practically doomed, but agreement between the United States and Great Britain would lead to a position similar to that at Lausanne where negotiations reached such a stage that no nation dare assume the responsibility of causing a breakdown. Mr. Baldwin took a wise and commendable stand in announcing that Britain had reached a limit and that it was not practicable to reduce the number of naval units below a certain point, while he introduced a suggestion that may lead to a solution when he proposed the reduction of naval armaments by other means, and the reduction of gun-calibres by one-third. This would reduce new capital ships to 25,000 tons with 11-inch guns, and cruisers of 10,000 tons to 7,000 tons with six-inch guns. This suggestion should be acceptable to all nations as it is generally conceded that the large battle-ships are offensive rather than defensive, and it is the contention of all nations that all armaments are defensive, being maintained merely to ensure security. Be that as it may, the great majority of world opinion is against the larger warships, many opining that nothing bigger than a 10,000-ton cruiser is necessary. A reduction of aircraft carriers to 22,000 tons should not provoke much dissension, but disagreement has already been expressed by Japan in regard to British proposals for a large reduction in destroyer tonnage and the abolition of submarines. Opposition from Japan concerning naval reductions and from France respecting land armaments will impede progress towards the ideal of disarmament but Anglo-American accord will overcome most of the obstacles and there is real foundation for some measure of optimism.

TREAT FOR LOCAL MUSIC-LOVERS.

Chemet Excels At King's.

FEMALE KREISLER.

Hong Kong music lovers were accorded the pleasure of hearing violin music as it should be played and from an artiste like Renée Chemet, during a recital at the King's Theatre, last night.

Her technique and grace is beyond comparison. The tones that flow from the strings of her famous Gagliano, are sweet and true, and they burst forth in an avalanche of spirited musical notes, suggestive of chaos, or, they die to a mere whisper so as to become almost inaudible and make one thing of the sighing of the wind through the branches of a pine.

Her playing is beyond comparison. Chemet is recognised as the foremost interpreter of the Ed. Lalo creations. Her playing of the Concerto in F minor gave the impression that no contemporary could equal her rendition. She has been called by several famous concert masters, among them being the famous British composer, Sir Henry Wood, to play a strictly Ed. Lalo concert.

In the second half of her programme the "Dancing Doll" by Poldini-Kreisler was the best liked. She played it twice, and still the audience clamored for more. The selection "Pale Moon," adapted from American Indian music, was admirably done. Played with muted strings, it brought out all the plainness and weirdness of an Indian Legend. The last number on her programme was "Miramar." A modernistic Spanish dance melody by Turina which Chemet heard and translated to suit her own style of playing. In the piece she strummed her violin strings as a guitar and played with all the biviousness typical of Spanish Music.

It would be difficult to select any particular piece as outstanding, but "Souvenir" by Drdla was worthy of the reception it received. A typical violin composition and she played it with the finesse of Kreisler. Four other selections encored were "Boué" by Moza, "German Dance" by Mozart, "Liebesleid" by Kreisler and a fiery Italian composition called "Zapadeado" by Sarasate.

Madame Chemet, together with her accompanist Anna Seidlova, who contributed largely to the success of the performance, embarked to-day for home on the Hakusan Maru. She proposes to rest until next September when she will start another tour from London, and will probably visit Hong Kong again.

Agreement Arrived at by Lausanne Delegates To-day

a scheme to assist Austria as a this hard-fought conference. Mr. Chamberlain's dinner with M. Herriot, and M. Germain Martin last night was a master stroke, for under its genial influences, M. Herriot's tenacity softened, and quickly taking advantage of the change of mood, the Britisher brought Herr Von Papen and Gen. Von Neurath to conference with the French and Mr. MacDonald in the small hours.

When the conversation ended, the delegates returned to bed, tired but with revived hopes.

All depends on the wording of the short preamble to the treaty, of which scores of drafts have been examined.

The fifth resolution deals with the World Economic and Financial Conference which it was decided would be convened by the League of Nations. The meeting place has been left open and will not be necessarily at Geneva.

Meanwhile a commission of experts will be appointed, to which the United States will be invited, to send a representative, to study financial and economic problems with which the conference will deal.

London Satisfaction. London, To-day.

Tremendous satisfaction has been expressed by London political and business circles at the outcome of the Lausanne conference. It is hoped that the agreement will definitely close the era of pernicious war mentality and perhaps mark the turning point in the depression of trade.

Rome Gratified. Rome, To-day.

The uncertainties of the past few days have told on the nerves of observers, but the news of the Lausanne agreement was hailed with joyful relief, and as a vindication of Premier Mussolini's policy of the last ten years which urged the wiping clean of the debt slate.

Premier MacDonald's untiring patience has been referred to in superlative terms. The Vatican is similarly happy and declares the agreement is in line with the policy of the Pope, announced in 1922.

No Joy Bells in Paris. Paris, To-day.

A sigh of relief, but no joy bells to accompany it, is the reception which France gives the announcement from Lausanne. For the nation, Paris' commentators point out, has given up much and received nothing.

Nevertheless, the nation has congratulated M. Herriot upon making the best of a bad bargain.

Germany Divided. Berlin, To-day.

Germany is divided into two camps and the attitudes towards the Lausanne agreement differ. The Moderates and Democrats are satisfied that Germany has accomplished something substantial in the agreement which ought to open the road to world recovery in trade.

The Nationalists, on the other hand, are furious with Herr Von Papen for abandoning the political demands which they say will be avenged in the Reichstag elections on July 31.

Revision of Debts. Washington, To-day.

Officials of the State Department here express themselves as gratified with the Lausanne agreement and declare that the United States Government is ready now to fulfil its promise to consider the revision of debts as soon as the European powers are agreed upon the matter of reparations.

But, they add, the European powers are agreed upon the matter of reparations. They must submit proposals individually, as the policy of the United States has always flourished nearly 1,000 years and been to consider its fifteen new empires to which the European debtors separately.

When the Plenary Session Ad. 700 A.D. Calakmul was a great religious centre, Dr. Morley reports, for it contained many temples and monuments, and built new cities in the road to world recovery in trade.

Calakmul lies just over the northern Guatemala border in Mexico, midway between the center of the old empire, which flourished nearly 1,000 years ago, and the new empire, which had been established between 500 and 700 A.D.

Calakmul was a great religious centre, Dr. Morley reports, for it contained many temples and monuments, and built new cities in the road to world recovery in trade.

Calakmul was a city of the old empire, which centred around a swampy water becoming contaminated, may have caused an epidemic of disease that drove the Mayas from the region, they suggest.

The remnants of the Mayas who still live in Yucatan know nothing of their ancestors.

German differences in the nature of nothing of their ancestors.

CHENG KWOK-YAU COMMITTED.

Connecting Thread in Evidence.
DEFENCE RESERVED.

After 25 full sittings, which entailed 33 appearances of the accused, and in which 45 witnesses were called, the case in which Cheng Kwok-yau (20) is charged with the instigation of the murder of George Fung at Village Road on the night of March 24 last, concluded its preliminary hearing at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, when the Magistrate, Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, committed the accused to stand trial at the next Criminal Sessions at the Supreme Court.

Mr. R. E. Lindsell, Public Prosecutor, appeared for the Crown. Mr. G. H. Hall Bruton, who acted for the accused, reserved the defence.

His Worship commented that the evidence given was scattered, but he found the connecting thread which joined the evidence such as to form a prima facie case.

As a Police Court case, it is the longest in the history of the Colony and throughout the keenest interest was evinced, especially by the Chinese public.

Yesterday afternoon, after Traffic-Sergeant A. R. Brittain, Detective Sub-Inspector C. R. Rozesky and Chief-Detective-Inspector A. N. Reynolds had given evidence, Mr. Hall Bruton, addressing his Worship, said that there was no case to answer.

Case To Meet.

Mr. Wynne-Jones: I don't think I need call upon the Crown to submit any further arguments. It is quite obvious that I have studied all the evidence quite closely. I must necessarily point out that my business here is merely to satisfy myself that there is a prima facie case, and that whatever the defence may be, there is sufficient evidence to go before a jury. Now the evidence which has been produced before me has been, I might call, scattered—a bit here and a bit there, and a bit somewhere else—as very often happens in these cases, and all I have to be satisfied is that there is a connecting thread which joins this evidence in such a manner as to form a prima facie case. It is not my business to discuss the strength of that thread. That is for the jury. I think I know this evidence very well by now, and I find there is such a thread. Having found that thread, therefore, it is my duty to commit.

Accused Committed.

Mr. Hall Bruton: Does that thread run right through?

Mr. Wynne-Jones: If I do find a thread connecting the principal points of the evidence I should commit. This case is really in two parts, and it gave me a certain amount of difficulty at first, as I think it gave you, Mr. Bruton, but I find a thread right through.

Mr. Hall Bruton: An unbroken thread, your Worship?

Mr. Wynne-Jones: The thread, in my opinion is unbroken, but I won't discuss the strength.

The formality of cautioning defendant was then proceeded with and he was asked by the Court if he wished to say anything.

He replied that he did not wish to say anything himself; his solicitor would be speaking on his behalf.

Mr. Wynne-Jones: You are, therefore, committed to take your trial at the next Criminal Sessions at the Supreme Court.

STIFF PENALTY FOR SEAMAN.

In Charge of Launch.

A fine of $100, or in default, three months' imprisonment was imposed on a seaman named Cheung Shing, who was charged with being in charge of the steam launch "Fu Hung," on July 8, without being qualified. An additional fine of $10 or 10 days' was imposed for having disobeyed the Harbour Master's order by towing 15 cargo boats through the southern entrance of Yaumati Typhoon Shelter.

When accused appealed before Commander G. H. Hole at the Marine Court yesterday, the latter stressed the danger of the first offence, which he described as "not only a danger to yourself, but to others."

BALDWIN EXPLAINS POLICY ON ARMS BRITAIN IS PREPARED FOR SACRIFICES PROGRAMME OUTLINED

London, Yesterday.

An important declaration of the British disarmament policy was made by Acting Premier Stanley Baldwin in the House of Commons to-day. He prefaced specific proposals by pointing out that the British Government cordially welcomed President Hoover's recent declaration, because it called for a really substantial measure of disarmament and sought to apply two principles of qualitative and quantitative limitation.

Success at Geneva depended on general agreement and the Hoover proposals were put forward as a contribution to an agreed general programme. British proposals should also be regarded as contribution to general agreement, he said. British further agreed with President Hoover in that the three problems of military, naval and air disarmament were interconnected. Britain, like the United States, found her strongest arm in the navy and although naval contributions to disarmament on a large scale had already been made in advance of present the conference, the British Government now offered a further contribution.

Cut to Bone Already.

Dealing with land disarmament, Mr. Baldwin said the British Government found themselves very largely in accord with President Hoover's proposals. British troops in Britain, her Colonies and India had been reduced as compared with the year before the war from 265,000 to 207,000, this being effected by disbandment of many units. America had proposed a division of land forces in police component and defence component, and upon that basis British land forces had already been reduced much below the number recognised as necessary for maintenance of internal order, without making allowance for forces needed on lines of communication with Empire.

Britain had already joined in rejecting chemical and bacteriological warfare and in regard to land guns had proposed abolition of all mobile guns above 155 mm. calibre. Regarding tanks, the Government agreed with Mr. Hoover in desiring that specifically offensive weapons be prohibited and had advocated abolition of all tanks over 20 tons, which type were especially adaptable for offensive employment. Lighter tanks, however, could not be regarded as offensive weapons and constituted essential compensation for lack of numbers in a small voluntarily enlisted army. Britain had on land already put into practice a measure of disarmament which more than conformed to the standards proposed by Mr. Hoover, the Minister declared.

Can't Reduce Armament.
It would thus be possible to reduce the size of capital ships still further and fix the maximum at 22,000 tons, with 11 inch guns. This would nearly halve the initial cost of any future capital ship and greatly reduce the cost of maintenance.

Thus the whole scale would come down together and there would be a definite return to smaller dimensions. On this basis the United Kingdom's proposal would effect ultimate reduction in capital ship tonnage alone of 195,000 tons. A comparable figure under the United States proposal would be about 175,000 tons. As regards aircraft carriers the Government were in substantial agreement with the Hoover proposals and suggest reduction in size from 27,000 to 22,000 tons with consequent reduction in tonnage from 135,000 to 110,000 tons. Britain favoured the abolition of submarines, which would also make possible reduction of destroyer tonnage by about one-third. If submarines could not be completely abolished, their surface displacement should be fixed at 250 tons with strict limitation of total tonnage and number of units, said Mr. Baldwin.

The Government were prepared to go to any length with other Powers to preserve the civilian population from the horrors of air bombardment. The Government proposed a complete prohibition of all bombing from the sea save within limits to be laid down as precisely as possible by international convention. Attacks upon civilian population would be entirely prohibited. Strict limitation in unladen weight of all military and naval aircraft must be kept.

Concluding, Mr. Baldwin said that, although Britain's reductions in all three classes had been beyond comparison greater than those effected elsewhere, outside countries disarmed by the Versailles Treaty, she was ready and eager to join in further measures for which general agreement could be attained. REVIVAL OF TUDOR SCENES. Unique Exhibition in England. OAK-TIMBERED HAMLET.

London.

Clicking turnstiles were all that separated the bustle of modern London from a mellow-tiled oak-timbered Tudor hamlet clustered round its traditional village green complete with pump, dove-cotes, stocks and ducking-stool of four centuries ago, at the recent Ideal Home Exhibition in Olympia Hall here.

Near by the Tudor village, which consists of six full-sized brick and mortar houses, is Portcullis Avenue, representing a shopping thoroughfare of bygone London. Beneath the worn gray gables of the shops are names of famous firms which have been carrying on their trades for more than a century!

An atmosphere of more leisurely times is wonderfully well conveyed by these old houses and streets, which look as if they have taken years to build; yet they will soon be supplanted by wireless inventions and motorcars of other exhibitions. From antiquity, however, the visitor in search of his ideal home soon passed to the brilliant modern City of Light beneath the huge dome of the hall.

Appear to All Ages.
Eager young couples and more sedate but no less eager elderly ones thronged the 12-acre floor space arrayed with novelties, ingenious labour-saving devices and colourful, artistic decorations of a more than 1,000 different firms. Most of those who passed from one inviting stall to another visualized two pictures—one the welcome additions and alterations they could afford to make to their present homes, and the other, that "home of their dreams."

They laughed as they passed through the "Curious Homes beyond the Seas" section, where primitive dwellings of distant races are reproduced in faithful detail.

Suddenly one passed from the main hall into a maze of beautiful gardens, described as the "Gardens of the Novelists," each one having been inspired by a passage from some well-known book. There is Lady Dedlock's garden from "Bleak House." Another is the garden planted by Old Jolyon with cypress trees in John Galsworthy's "In Chancery." Other novelists whose visions are pictured in bouldered stream, in flowering shrub and summer flowers are Warwick Deeping, J. B. Priestley, Harrison Ainsworth and Mrs. Gaskell.

Nobody knows its ancestry and, furthermore, nobody cares. But its history is the thing. It is a souvenir of the recent Sino-Japan's hostilities in Chapei. If a fish has a memory, "little goldie" must have poignant recollections of the stirring times through which it passed. For it was in the heat of the battle between the Japanese bluejackets and the 19th Route Army, during the fierce attack on the Commercial Press building in Chapei.

"Little goldie" resided with a number of other goldfish in a small glass jar on a window ledge in the Commercial Press. It had been neglected, with its companions, by its owner during the hurried evacuation of the threatened areas of Chapei.

Then came the Japanese advance on the Press building. A shell struck the wall supporting the ledge on which "little goldie" and the other goldfish had been left. There was a shivering, splintering crash and the wall collapsed.

Some days later, a party of Japanese bluejackets were engaged in clearing the debris round the Commercial Press when one of the party came across a tiny goldfish swimming in the gutter. "Little goldie" was rescued. It was the only living thing in the vicinity, with the exception of the Japanese marines. For this reason it was regarded as lucky.

Cared for by the Japanese bluejackets, the goldfish was subsequently presented to Prince Takamatsu as a souvenir of one of the severest engagements fought during the recent hostilities. It is now in the royal household.

The tourist who comes to Britain for his holiday should count it a blessing that among our host of hotels there is, at least, one group whose houses are dotted about all over England and who can be relied upon to serve a good plain English meal for a moderate price at any hour of the day or night.

The group, of course, is Trust Houses, Ltd., and it controls 180 houses. The Trust sign hangs above the door of many different buildings, some big and others small, outside the little inn in Little Swaffingham, as well as outside the hotel in Birmingham. But inside the traveller can rely upon certain things. He can rely upon good plain food, and what will be even more attractive to foreigners than to English visitors, upon English visitors, upon English food. You must judge for yourself by its fruits, and when the foreign visitor comes to England he wants English fruits and not indifferent French ones.

The Old English Inn is thought of as a picturesque place outside to which there was a Pickwickian landlord, as large and rascial as Portch, standing in a state of perpetual ecstatic cheerfulness. Times change, and Mr. Pickwick has gone. But in the Trust House the tradition of courtesy and service is admirably carried on, with a smile on everybody's face. A recent saying of Lord Beaconsfield—that the British hotel is second to none.

WORLD FIERS CRASH. Plane Completely Wrecked.

BUT BOTH MEN SAFE.

New York, Yesterday. Disaster has put a sudden stop to the round-the-world flight by the American airmen, Jimmy Mattern and Bennett Griffin, who had made a good start from New York and seemed certain to break the record put up by Post and Gatty.

Their machine was forced down at 1 a.m. yesterday, near Norissov, in the region of Minsk (about 300 miles from Warsaw), and was completely wrecked.

The airmen were only bruised. It is reported that damaged controls had led the airmen to change their direction as Minsk was not on the route over which they planned to fly.

Mattern and Griffin, who set out from New York on Tuesday, made a record trip across the Atlantic, covering the distance in 11½ hours. —Reuter.

NOT A POOR FISH.

Lucky Goldie Rises to Regal Status.

This is not a tale of a "Cinderella" with a silver slipper, but a true story of a fish with a golden hue. It was not a "poor fish," either, for it has been raised to regal status. To-day it is one of the household of Prince Takamatsu in Japan.

Nobody knows its ancestry and, furthermore, nobody cares. But its history is the thing. It is a souvenir of the recent Sino-Japan's hostilities in Chapei. If a fish has a memory, "little goldie" must have poignant recollections of the stirring times through which it passed. Crowds collected to see "Blewthyn Bach"—the Little House—which is a birthday present from the Welsh people to Princess Elizabeth, six-year-old daughter of the Duke of York. It is an exact model of a thatched cottage, completely furnished and equipped with every modern convenience in miniature.

FIGHTING IN THE AIR.

THE SIEGE OF MAFEKING.

Quaint Journal on Exhibition.

Sydney.

Memories of the historic siege of Mafeking were recalled by the exhibition by Mr. L. Beavis, of the Whyte Hart Hotel, North

Parramatta, of a copy of the

"Mafeking Mail," dated May 4,

1900—the 204th day of the siege.

Mr. Beavis was one of the defenders of Mafeking, and was wounded there.

The tiny newspaper is printed on sheets torn from a ledger. It is 12 by 8 inches in size, with three columns of the average newspaper width on each of the single sheets.

News takes up one side, and the other is devoted to general orders issued by the commander,

Colonel R. S. Baden Powell, and to advertisements.

The publisher's note states that the sheet was issued daily,

"shells permitting," the price being a shilling a week—in advance.

The news deals mainly with the war, but there are some brief cables.

"Telegrams" of congratulations to the Prince of Wales on his escape from assassination have been sent by Lord Roberts and

Dr. Leyds," states one message.

Another runs, "A London

Stop the War Committee has petitioned the German Chancellor for intervention on the basis of the Hague Convention. These people ought to be indicted for treason."

An advertisement informs the defenders that "The siege lottery will be drawn at Bradley's Hotel at 7.30 p.m."

Another advertisement is for auction sale on Sunday, May 6.

The goods to be sold on behalf of the Imperial Government included 62 horse hides, 57 donkey hides, eight ox and 30 goat skins.

This explains where the garrison's fresh meat came from.

These machines, in perfect echelon at close intervals, half roll on to their backs and instantly made the half loop which brought them back, presenting the same sort of front to the imaginary enemy, who had turned to make for home.

TO AMERICA IN OPEN BOAT

Lone Voyager Leaves Wellington

Wellington N. Z. As quietly and unostentatiously as he arrived Mr. Fred Rebelle resumed his voyage from Sydney to Los Angeles, via Suva, Samoa and Tahiti.

He arrived here in his small 88 ft. boat Elaine without papers of any description and did not think it necessary to obtain any clearance when he left.

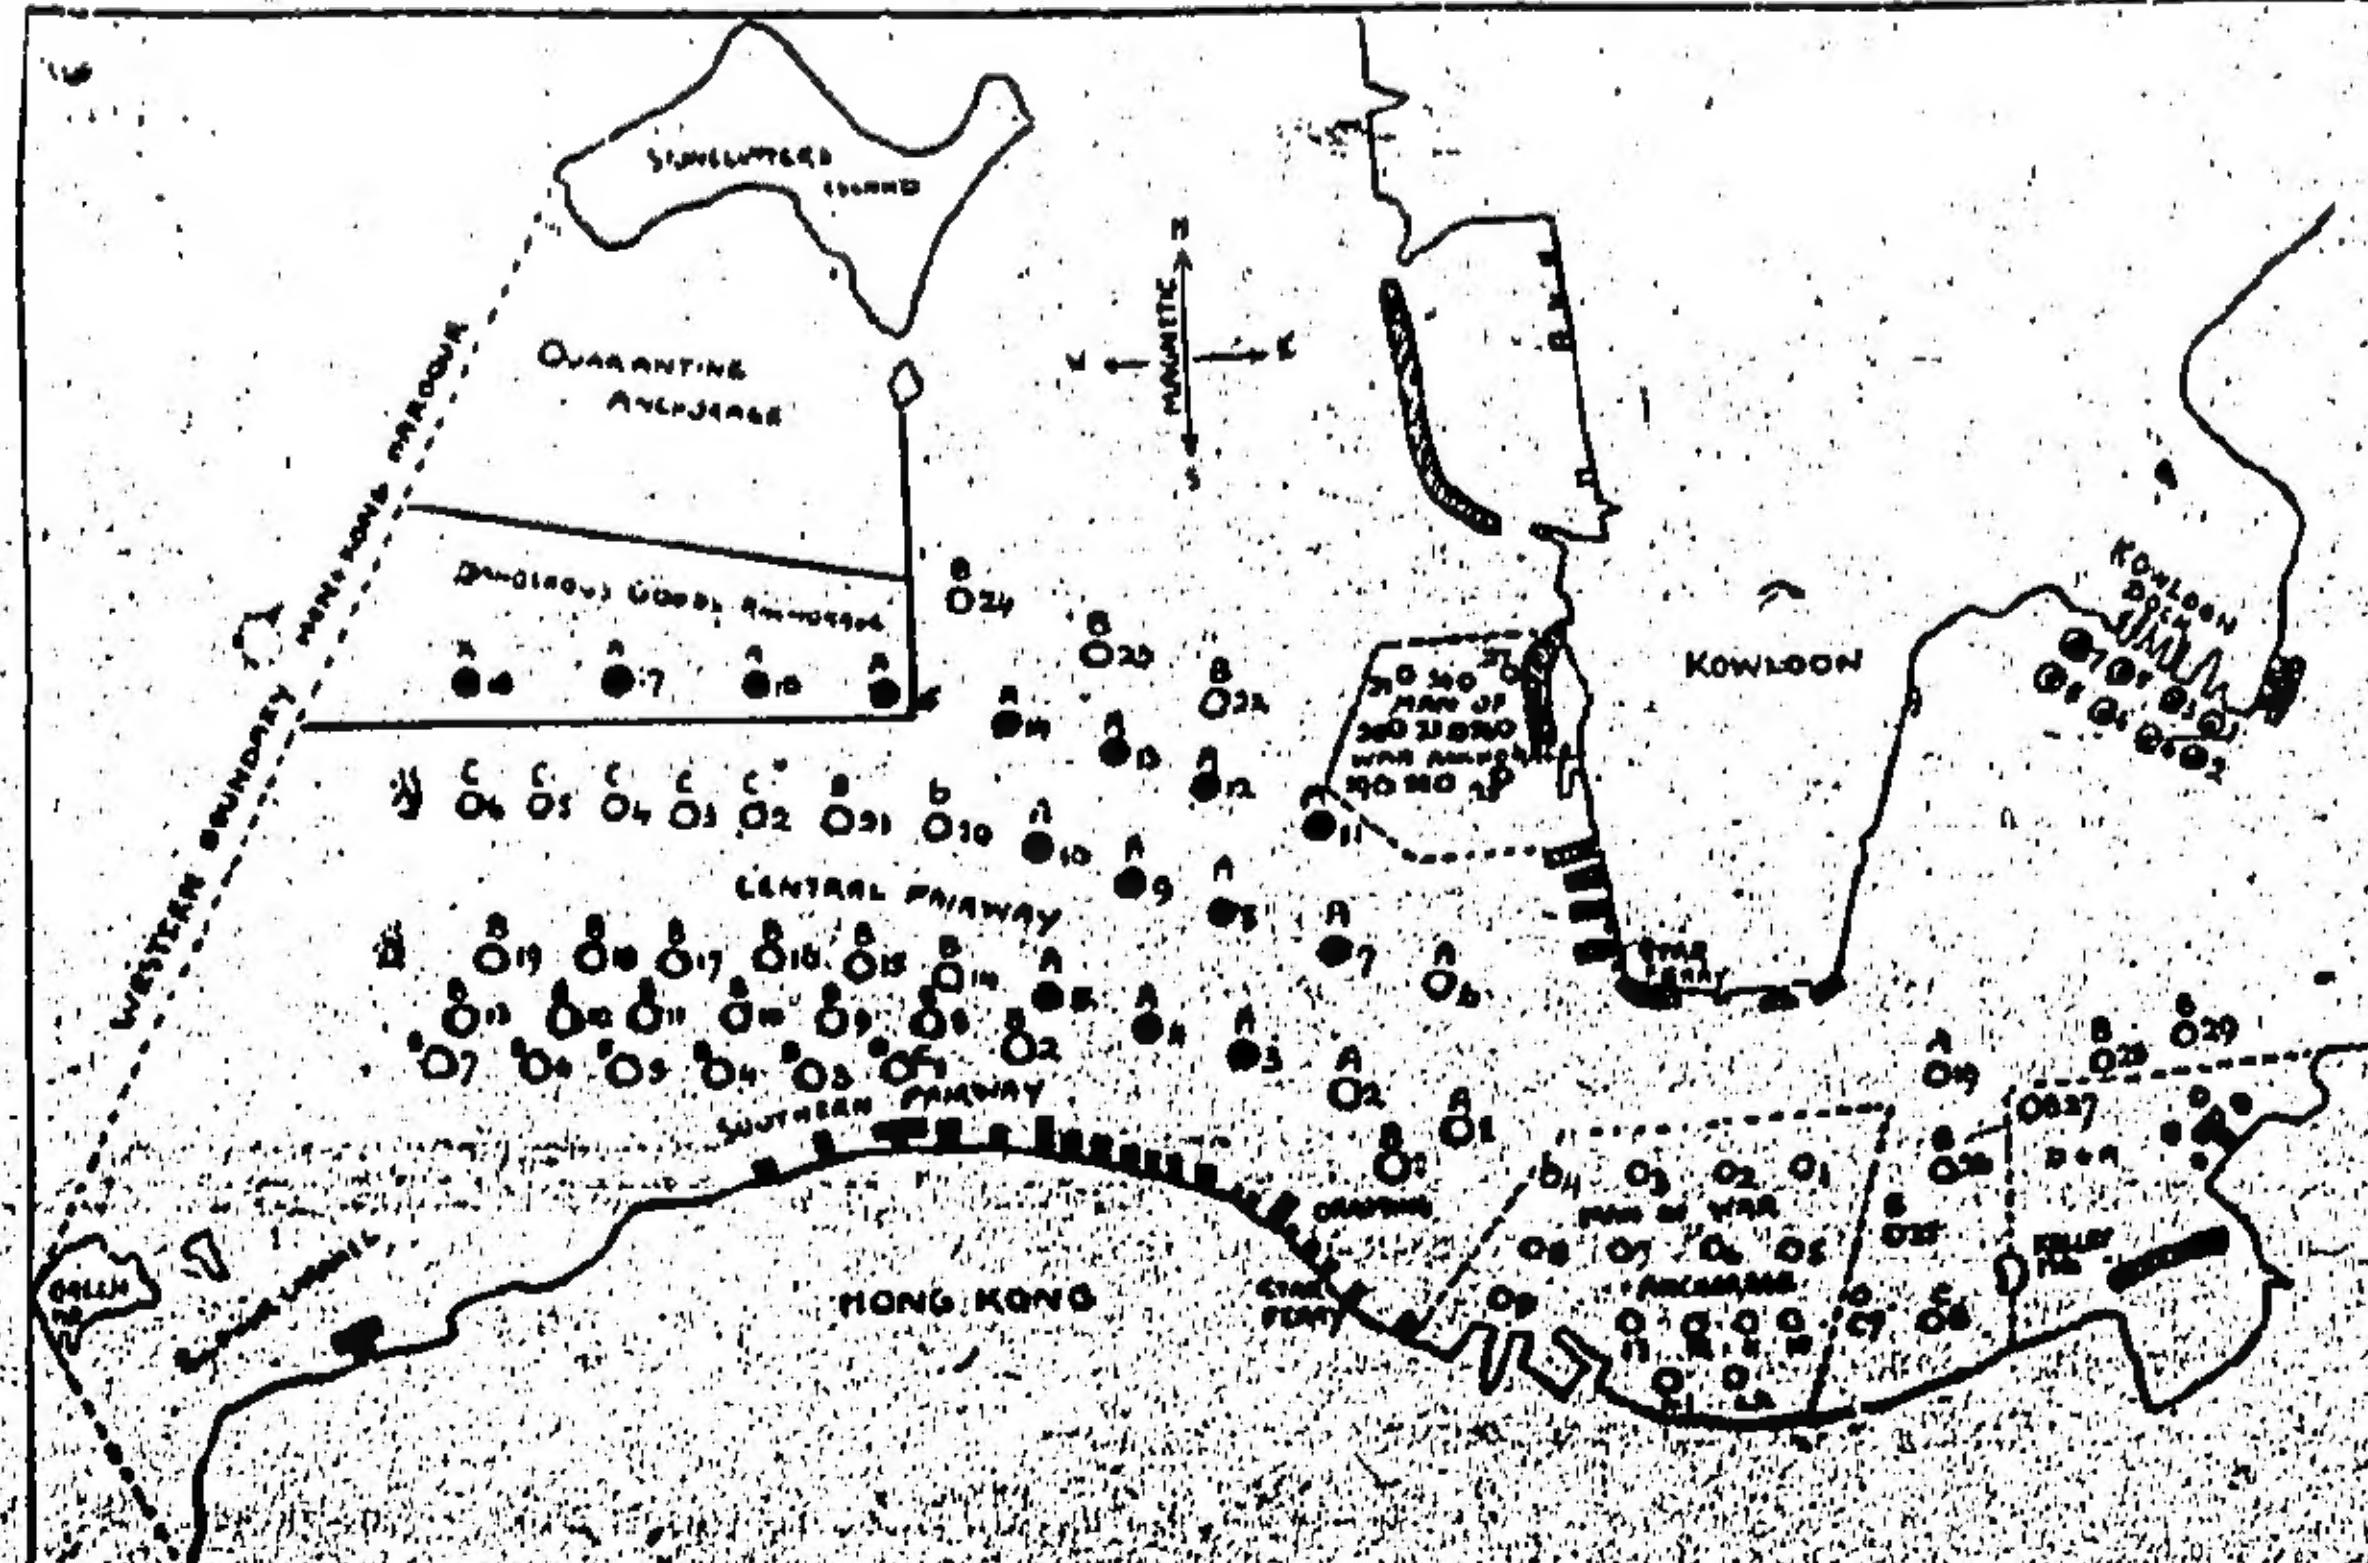

"I don't bother about these sort of things," he remarked. "I just come and go."

When Mr. Rebelle arrived at Suva after two months' voyage from Sydney he decided that one or two alterations would be desirable. He renewed the centreboard, which had been carried away, and covered in part of the stern of the boat with thickly-oiled material. After re-provisioning the little vessel he expressed himself as being well satisfied that she was in good shape to meet any rough weather.

His confidence, however, is not shared by local seamen, who regard the venture as being particularly dangerous.

Before he left Mr. Rebelle collected a good supply of reading matter, particularly poetry, to which he is very partial. Asked when he expected to reach Los Angeles, he said he was not sure, adding that he was in no hurry and would just as soon spend the next two years between here and Los Angeles as anywhere else.

Very few people saw the tiny craft depart. As quietly as she arrived, the Elaine slipped out through the reef passage in the grey light of early morning. A white speck of sail-cloth held the eye for a brief space, then gradually merged into the vast expanse of blue sky and sapphire sea.

BUOY PLAN OF HONG KONG HARBOUR.

LUXURY FOR NAVY
Enough to Make An Old Sailorman Wonder.
SARTORIAL PERFECTION

An old sailorman, of the type that is dying out in the Navy—the man who, with years of service, is rated "Able Seaman," but has his three good conduct stripes—may wonder what has come over the British Navy.

He, the old shellback, with memories of real "hard tack" of salt pork, ships' biscuits, and neat rum, and memories of real "hard lying" (service in ships where comfort was unknown) may wonder why sailors should have pillows, pyjamas, light shoes, and softer material for their singlets.

Yet an Admiralty Committee, presided over by Rear-Admiral W. F. French, have solemnly sat in conference and made recommendations about the sartorial perfection of sailors.

The "V" Opening

Here is what they say:
White shoes, white socks, pillows, pillow covers, pyjamas, and cotton singlets have been added to the articles stocked for sale to the men.

The possibility of improving the pattern of thin stockings to make them more comfortable with tropical rig in hot climates is being explored.

Chief Petty Officers, when in tropical rig, will wear an open-necked shirt instead of the tropical singlet. The shirt will have a roll collar and neck opening.

The "V" opening in all jumpers is to extend to one inch below the lower end of the breast bone, so as to provide an opening 12 in. to 16 in. in depth.

All serge jumpers are to have cuffs, and are to be shaped to the body.

The present pattern of black leather shoe is being replaced by a shoe of lighter pattern.

A softer material than that hitherto used has been adopted for tropical singlets, which will be made in future with slightly shorter sleeves.

And the sartorial experts have solemnly decided that "trousers for men dressed as seamen are in future to be 12 inches to 18 inches wide at the knee and 12 inches to 14 inches wide at the foot, the variation being to allow for the build of the individual."

How "Silks" Are Tied

For many, many years sailors have tied their "silks"—those yard square black scarfs—at the front in defiance of Admiralty rules and regulations. Now the committee have decreed that "neck handkerchiefs" may, in future, be tied at the back or front at the option of the wearer."

Permission is also given for men not dressed as seamen to wear brown leather gloves when ashore and off duty.

To-day, writes an Evening News correspondent, I stood outside Chatham Barracks and watched some of the modern Navy come ashore on week-end leave. Smart they undoubtedly were but not

ROUND HONG KONG'S CINEMA THEATRESOFFICIAL SOURCES.*"THE FOUR INFANTRYMEN"

"The Four Infantrymen" which is on its final screenings to-day at the Queen's is the first talking picture from the German studios, to be shown here. Originally called "Comrades of 1918" this great war film was made by Nero-Film with all dialogue in German, not counting a few occasional utterances in French. It reflects the Teutonic point of view of the Great War and serves as a lesson against war.

There is no special continuity to the action, which is no more than a series of incidents showing the dreadful consequences of war, its destruction of men and minds, as well as property, and the terrifying outbreaks of the afflicted soldiers who don't even know why they are ordered to kill and die.

"EMMA"

A man who creates combos of the most terrible sort, just as Balzac did in his literature—that is what short. He plays the lovable old inventor, opposite Marie Dressler, in "Emma," opening to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre.

The parallel goes further. Her short works as Balzac did he collects his characters from actual life. At his home he has thick volumes packed with clippings, each telling of some unique character. He studied life. He attends trials, inquests and public affairs, not from curiosity but to watch human reactions.

That's why he can play an old inventor, or the doctor in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," or the stern uncle in "Susan Lenox" or the rich moneylender in "Darkbreak." He is a master of make-up, learned from his experience as a painter in Denmark. For now he terribly uses his face as a canvas to paint and portray a character better suited to actual life, as one painted portraits from living models.

His dramatic ability, as an actor, Herscholt is a scholar, an authority on fine editions, an author, and editor of a magazine.

"CHEATERS AT PLAY"

A multitude of thrills, along with an unusual romance and an abundance of comedy, are neatly wrapped in one screen package, "Cheaters at Play," showing at the King's Theatre.

A desperate fight on the ship's upper deck at midnight, an ex-crook's discovery of a young thief's identity, a thrilling flight to shore aboard a mail-plane, a novel kidnapping in an armoured car, and the perilous rescue of the two young lovers at the last moment, all furnish many breathless moments, while the eccentric antics of Charlotte Greenwood, as the millionaire's wife, supply much of the film's hilarity.

Thomas Meighan as the suave ex-crook shares the leading honours with Miss Greenwood, and Barbara Weeks and William Farnsworth have the romantic roles. Linda Watkins, Ralph Morgan, James Kirkwood and other celebrities are in the cast. Hamilton MacFadden directed.

"ALMOST A DIVORCE"

"At the moment," says the star, "there seems no definite comedy from the leading British studios, and I think the whole thing is definitely numb every time I thought of the coming week."

Lew Ayres is no longer self-conscious when he is working before the camera. Early in his career, he "took the cure" in a big way.

"In my first picture," said Ayres recently, "I was so self-conscious that I seemed to be all hands and feet." The picture was "The Sophomore." My second engagement, several months later, was with Greta Garbo in "The Kiss" and there seems no definite comedy from the leading British studios, and I think the whole thing is definitely numb every time I thought of the coming week."

Ayres comes to the Central Theatre to open his latest film, "The Last Mile," on March 12. "It's a wonderful little picture," he says. "It's a River drama in which Lew plays the role of a "shanty-beater" of the South's "white trash" directed by Russell Mack with the support of Anita Louise, Slim Summerville, and other noted screen-characters.

"A TAILOR MADE MAN"

William Haines, the famous screen comedian, is at his best in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's mirth-provoking production, "A Tailor Made Man," now being screened at the Star Theatre, Kowloon. Opposite Haines is pretty Dorothy Jordan.

Although Haines carries the bulk of the comedy on his shoulders, with his inimitable mannerisms, much credit is due to Joseph Cawthorn, who has a difficult role to portray. Haines is seen as John Paul Barton, assistant in a clothespressing establishment, who, in order that he might attain distinction, wants a customer's evening suit and "steps out".

An interesting Hearst Newsreel and an amusing Flip-the-Frog cartoon complete the programme.

Long Ago Stories Pengwern And The Stone Carpet

Pengwern the Briton hung about the Roman town seeking work. As he lingered round a house which was being built, a Roman came up and asked him what he wanted.

"I would like to make a carpet of coloured stones like the one you are putting on the floor of your house," replied Pengwern.

Pengwern tried for many days...and the stone carpet grew in beauty.

"I have the same magic in my fingers as you have, only I have never thought of using it."

"You think of nothing but fighting and hunting," smiled the Roman. "What is the good of a floor of coloured stones to those who live in mud huts?"

"When I am a man, I will build houses like yours," replied Pengwern. "Look at those dogs on your carpet — the workmen have made their heads wrong."

Now the hall of the Roman's house was being covered with a beautiful pavement across which hunting dogs raced. And, although Pengwern knew nothing about the laying of pavements, and had never seen one till the Romans built their town, his fingers ached to get hold of those fragments of coloured stone and shape them into flowers, fruit, and animals as the Romans did.

"Your friends will laugh at you if you play with our coloured stones and build a beautiful house," grinned the Roman.

"But they do not laugh at you," sighed Pengwern. "Why is it that you can scent your hair, and make carpets of stones, and also fight and rule the land well?"

"Come and place the stones in my pavement; then you will learn for yourself," replied the Roman.

Pengwern could hardly believe his ears. But he knelt down on the ground, took a handful of coloured marble which had been cut into small pieces, and set about making a dog's head. To his shame, he could not do it. His first thought was to destroy the floor, his second to run away, his third to strike the Roman who had shamed him. But he saw the Roman smiling, and a great sorrow came over him.

"What is the matter with me?" he asked, "I fear nothing, yet I cannot trace a dog's head in stones."

"Because you have not learnt to control yourself," said the Roman. "Temper is no good; perseverance is everything. Try again."

Pengwern tried for many days, and, as his fingers became more gentle and experienced, the stone carpet grew in beauty. The Briton came and looked at this floor, and they did not laugh at Pengwern because they knew he was learning some secret — the secret of patience and perseverance which was the power of the Romans.

Pengwern became a great maker of coloured stone floors. Even to-day there are a number of them beneath our pavements, waiting to be uncovered.

WENDY'S LITTLE DRESSMAKERS

A Skirt With "Braces".

A Wendy girl wants to make a specially nice skirt that she can wear with little blouses, so we hope all our Dressmakers will be interested in the one we are describing this week. It is made of woollen material in any pretty shade you fancy, and the novel "braces" are embroidered with wool flowers.

You'll need two pieces of material, each about thirty-six inches long and fifteen inches deep. These measurements will make a skirt to fit a girl of about eleven or twelve. Lay them flat together, then fold, and cut as shown in Diagram A. The waist-band is shown in the upper part of the Diagram; it is four inches deep, and long enough to go comfortably round your waist. Like the skirt it's made in two pieces.

Sew up the side-seams of skirt and band, then join them together, gathering the skirt a little each side to make it fit the band. Hem the skirt, and turn in the top of the band. Now cut the "braces," three inches wide and long enough to go comfortably over your shoulders. As you see by the small sketch, they cross over at the back. Turn in the raw edges, hem neatly, and work flowers and leaves down each. Diagram B shows how you do the embroidery. Penny-sized circles, buttonholed round, make the flowers, the stems are worked with back-stitching, and the leaves are lazy-daisies. Ask a friend to pin the straps in position when you are wearing the skirt, then you'll be certain to get them in the right place. When you are sure the position is correct, sew the straps to the skirt. A little pocket, embroidered to match, is stitched to the right side of the skirt.

Next week we'll see how to make a pretty little blouse to wear with it.

THE BILLY BOYS' WORKSHOP

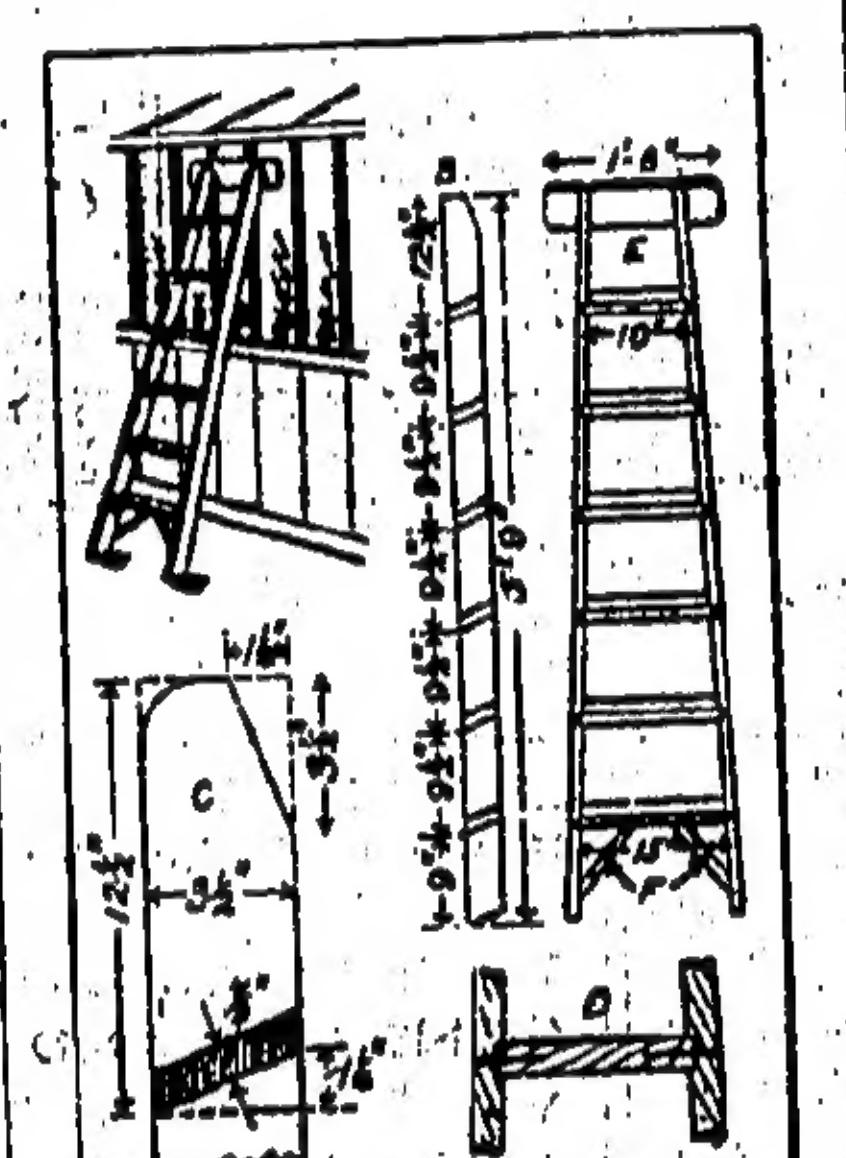

Making a Light Step Ladder

This useful ladder can be made of deal seven-eighths of an inch thick. There are six treads, and a top cross-rail which allows the ladder to be placed against a window frame, as shown in the first diagram.

The first parts to make are the two sides, which are five feet nine inches long and three and a half inches wide. Mark out on one piece the slanting lines which give the positions of the treads. Each pair of lines, which should be placed according to the dimensions given in diagrams B and C, should be exactly seven-eighths of an inch apart.

With your tenon saw, cut through the wood on the sloping lines to a depth of one-eighth of an inch, and chisel out the wood between the saw-cuts to form slots one-eighth of an inch deep. Saw the bottom end of the side piece to the same angle as the slots, and then shape the top end as shown at C. Mark out and finish the other side piece in the same way, and make sure that the slots in the second side slope the reverse way when the two parts are placed side by side.

The treads, which are four inches wide, have to be sawn to different lengths, the bottom one being fifteen inches and the top one ten inches long. Each tread is one inch shorter than the one immediately below it. They are fixed in position by stout nails driven in through the sides, as shown in diagram D. The top and bottom treads should be fixed first.

For the cross-rail E, cut a piece of wood one foot six inches long and four inches wide. Round the corners and screw it to the sloping ends of the side pieces, as shown in diagram D. The top and bottom treads should be slightly rounded.

To complete the ladders, screw two struts (F) between the ends of the sides and the back of the bottom tread, as shown. These struts are eleven inches long, one inch wide, and five-eighths of an inch thick.

THE PATCHWORK QUILT

Mother is making a Patchwork quilt; Oh, such a beautiful, colourful spread! Snippets of crimson and snippets of green, Orange and yellow, with purple between. It's really the loveliest quilt I've seen. And she says it's for my little bed!

Mother is making a Patchwork quilt. Oh, it grows fast, can't believe my own eyes! And as she stitches the red, green, and grey, Stories she tells in her own darling way,

Each tiny patch spells a memory gay.

Swifter and swifter her needle flies.

Mother was making a Patchwork quilt. Isn't thrilling — she's finished it quite! All the bright patterns are neatly sewn down, Buttercup, amethyst, emerald, brown,

And I'll have it on my bed to-night!

The beautiful quilt in the whole of the town, And I'll have it on my bed to-night!

OUR SWEET-MAKING CORNER

Ginger Fudge

For this you will require a quarter of a pound of preserved ginger cut into small pieces, one pound of granulated sugar, a piece of butter the size of a small egg, and half a pint of milk.

Put the milk, butter, and sugar into a saucepan, and heat slowly, stirring all the time for milk is liable to burn. When the sugar has dissolved, bring the mixture to the boil, still stirring, then add the ginger and mix well. Remove the saucepan from the fire, and beat the fudge with a wooden spoon till it is thick and creamy. It is the beating that really makes the fudge. When it begins to collect in a mass round the spoon, turn it on to a greased plate, pat it into a nice, block, and leave to cool.

(By Patrol Leader.)

THE CHIEF SCOUT TALKS.

Swimming—Don't Cut it Out.

Lots of Scouts have asked me whether we could alter the test of a First Class Scout by leaving out Swimming.

Well, if I were to make the alteration I should have the whole of the King's Scouts and First Class Scouts on to my objections—and it is their opinion that I value. But there is no fear that I should ever want to call a fellow a First Class Scout if he could not swim.

I know that there are lots of difficulties in the way for many boys, but that is just one of the tests of whether he is a real manly Scout or not.

A fellow who sits in a room and expects swimming to come to him is a bit of a—well, anyhow, he is not my idea of a Scout, and yet that is pretty nearly what a number of boys do.

Where There's a Will.

Remember this—there is some place where you can learn to swim, although it may not be next door. And somewhere there's a way to that place if you can only look out for it. Do you know where to look for that w'y? Why, in your own heart, of course.

Where there is the will there is the way.

There may be a swimming bath in your nearest town, or you may make your camps or your hikes take you to the seaside or to places where you can bathe; in numbers of cases Scouts have made their own bathing-place by damming and digging little streams.

There's hardly a place in Great Britain where you cannot learn to swim if you only set your mind to it and determine to make yourself a First-Class Scout and therefore an Al man.

Another series of contests is being arranged for the other camera.

Meanwhile, the competitors for the Public Health Badge tests, are as keen as mustard under the able guidance of Mr. Barnes.

Sir Alfred Pickford, known in almost every part of the British Empire as "Pickie," has resigned from the position of Development Commissioner of the Boy Scouts' Imperial Headquarters and from one or two smaller offices in connection with the Scout movement.

Sir Alfred retired from a Calcutta business about 10 years ago. He was very generally expected to succeed Lord Baden-Powell as Chief Scout, should the latter's resignation ever become necessary. He has made several Empire tours on behalf of the Scout movement, of which he was previously Headquarters Commissioner for Overseas Scouts.

Sir Charles Ferguson has also resigned from the office of Chief Scout's Commissioner for Scotland.

SCOUT FINDS INDIAN RELICS.

While digging in an ancient Indian cave along the Columbia River south of Wenatchee, Wash., Max Conover, a Boy Scout, found parts of a fire-making apparatus. He recognised it instantly as it is like the ones now used by Scouts. He found a cedar spindle, which showed the scars of the crude, flint knife with which it was shaped. The Indians revolved this spindle in a socket of a short piece of wood by means of a bow until the friction produced a flame. The bow was not found.

The first sticks, together with broken flint implements and a long wooden needle, used for making mats, were discovered in the cave, which is believed to have been occupied by the Aborigines.

"TRULY THE CHIEF'S AMBASSADORS."

Evidence of the work being done by the Deep Sea Scouts (seafaring Scouts) throughout the world comes from the Deep Sea Scout Liaison Officer at Barbados.

"They made it a point to visit our Club rooms whenever they were on shore, and put their visits to good account by teaching us something," he says. "Our Scouts and Sea Scouts were always on the look out for them, and truly appreciated their visits."

"They are truly the Chief Scout's Ambassadors. Those on the Norfolk and Repulse deserve special mention. We look forward to their return next year."

"No doubt you will be pleased to learn that the Captain Officers and ship's company of H.M.S. Bulwinkle presented us with a Naval officer. This guitar was originally purchased for us by Captain Commander Swinley of the Bulwinkle. Subsequently it was presented as above stated. The 'us' referred to above are the First Barbados Sea Scout Group, of which I am the G.S.M. This Group was started by me in 1919 and from then until now Lieut.-Commander Swinley, who was then A.D.C. to the then Governor, took a keen and lively interest in us. I do think he is entitled to be called a Deep Sea Scout from his long association with my group."

ST. ANDREW'S TROOP

Competitions Commence for Camera Prizes

The first of a series of competitions the prize for which is one of two fine cameras, kindly presented by Mr. J. C. M. Graham, local photographer, was held on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the S.M. Mr. Dorner. It took the form of "O'Grady says" drill series, and ten boys competed. Soon the S.M., who gave orders in rapid succession, was able to eliminate the first four lads.

Young Francis Jorge was eliminated with 3 points to his credit, while the Millington brothers, Leslie and Victor, gained 4 each, both being caught out at the same time. Peter Dillon kept the pace well, but had to admit defeat with 5 points.

Then came a keen struggle between Wally Henderson and Jackie Mitchell. Trying as hard as he could to "catch" them with "O'Grady says," the S.M. found it a difficult task, and so he decided to give each boy 15 points for top place.

Another series of contests is being arranged for the other camera.

Meanwhile, the competitors for the Public Health Badge tests, are as keen as mustard under the able guidance of Mr. Barnes.

It will interest you to know that a sketching class, open to all Kowloon Scouts will be held at St. Andrew's Church grounds, under Mr. Sweet, every Monday from 5.15 p.m. to 6 p.m. Boys are expected to do some home-work, in the form of half-an-hour's practice at drawing daily. Boys, here's your chance to learn!

BATS VERSUS GNATS.

Vienna. Bathers at a large bath near Vienna have long been plagued by gnats.

Now the management has heard that a bat swallows 50,000 gnats each night.

So they are introducing an "air force" of bats to fight the gnats. Special "bat turrets" have been erected on the banks of the Danube to provide shelter for some 2,000 bats during the day time.

THE CAVE MAN.

Modrid. While a nightwatchman was quarrelling with his wife, she tauntingly exclaimed, "You are a savageman, aren't you?"

It is alleged that, without an other word, the man struck his wife on the head with a heavy mace and carried her out of the window into the street three floors below.

LADY MOUNTBATTEN WINS ACTION.

Sued Publishers
For Libel.

REFUSES DAMAGES.

London, Yesterday.

A scandalous paragraph in the weekly newspaper "People," reflecting on an unnamed society woman, has led to a libel action by Lady Louis Mountbatten, in the High Court.

The paragraph stated that a woman, highly connected and immensely rich, associated with a coloured man to become the talk of the West End. The pair were caught in compromising circumstances, whereupon she was given the hint from a quarter impossible to ignore, to clear out of England for a couple of years.

Mr. Norman Birket, K.C., in opening the hearing announced a settlement had been reached.

The defendants, Odhams Press and the Editor of "People," apologized and would pay all costs. The plaintiff refused the heavy damages which the defendants were willing to pay. Counsel added the plaintiff had never met the man, believed to have been referred to. — Reuter.

Manchuria War Is Mere Myth.

Nanking, Yesterday.

With reference to the Japanese news agency report from Harbin alleging that the Chinese Government will ask Soviet Russia for active support in the recovery of Manchuria after Sino-Soviet diplomatic relations have been resumed, a spokesman from the Foreign Office formally denied the report this afternoon.

He characterised the entire statement as utterly without foundation, including the fact that the Soviet delegation at Moscow, Mr. Wang Tseng-shi, that negotiations between the two countries would be resumed in the autumn. — Reuter.

JAPANESE TALKIES.

BERLIN EXHIBITION.

Berlin, May 26. Japanese films have been seen in Europe before, but now the first Japanese talkie has made its appearance. This is due to the happy initiative of the "UFA" which once more thus testifies to its interest in matters cultural and incidentally renders notable service to international understanding. It is a short of film trilogy. The first part deals with life in Japan one thousand years ago, the second, during the glorious period of the Samurai knights, and the third in our own day.

The reception awarded this film by the Berlin public has been one of sympathetic interest rather than of enthusiasm. Particularly as regards the third, or modern instalment, where the contrast between the oldtime spirit of the race and the matter-of-fact atmosphere of our machine age is not acute enough to hold the essence of real drama yet pronounced enough to be disturbing. But the first two parts are full of poetry and beauty, redolent with the romance of old Japan.

The acting is so dramatic in all three parts that no titles or subtitles are necessary. Though the language is of course incomprehensible to all but a very few of the spectators, the action is thoroughly clear, and the spectator is never for one moment at sea. That is more than can be said for many a European or American talkie these days, when it is seen and heard outside the country of its production.

blue, and fitted with a 120 H. P. Gipsy III. Engine. Each pilot, in order to compete in this year's event, had to possess more than 100 hours flying experience, and his machine was required to a minimum of 110 miles hourly.

Light aeroplanes figured prominently, but Puss Moths had serious competition in nine Comper Swifts, probably the smallest machines in world.

At the end of to-day's flying the lead was held by W. L. Hope in a Fox Moth, Gipsy III., whose time was 15 hours, 14 minutes, 41 seconds. The Prince's machine was second, it's time being 15 hours 28 minutes 22 seconds. — British Wireless Service. — Reuter and British Wireless Service.

Gold Salvage Ship Will Help.

FRENCH CRAFT FOUND.

Cherbourg, Yesterday.

The first-class French submarine Promethee, which sank during a surface trial yesterday, has been located in 75 metres of water, north of Cape Levi, a few miles from Cherbourg.

There are 66 people aboard, and the Italian salvage steamer Artiglio, has left the sunken Egypt off the Ushant, where she has been salvaging gold, and is hastening to the scene. Strong currents are expected to impede rescue operations.

"I am Lieutenant du Mesnil, Commander of the Promethee. My submarine has just sunk."

This was the dramatic utterance gasped out to the skipper of the fishing boat "Yette" by one of the men he picked up, and was the first intimation of the tragedy.

The skipper stated that he was fishing when he heard desperate calls for help, and climbing up the mast, saw seven dots in the water. He succeeded in saving all seven men, who were in the last stages of exhaustion. Some burst into tears after their ordeal.

Commander du Mesnil is reported to have declared the catastrophe was inexplicable. Some mistake must have been made, for the submarine was sailing normally on the surface, with 10 men on the bridge, when suddenly he felt the vessel plunge beneath his feet. She disappeared in a few seconds, in 150 feet of water.

There were on board a crew of 49, and 17 engineers and workmen. The search for the sunken craft was continued throughout the night, and success came in the early morning. — Reuter.

IRISH DUTIES BILL PASSED.

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, said that before making the House to pass the bill, the Government had satisfied themselves that they had exhausted every means of reaching a settlement. He recalled the decision of the Imperial Conference in support of arbitration being limited to an Empire Court and said that although payments were governed by treaties, the Government were prepared to submit the question for arbitration by such a tribunal.

Mr. Thomas, winding-up the debate, said that the Government's repeated offer to submit the controversy over the land annuities to arbitration by an Imperial tribunal was conveyed in writing to Mr. De Valera yesterday. If Mr. De Valera accepted the conditions for an Empire tribunal, then the Government would not operate the Duty Bill. — Reuter and British Wireless Service.
